TRADE TREATY IS APPROVED
BY CANADIANS

Cabinet and Many Parliament
Members Give O. K. to Tentative Draft

WATERWAY IS "BIG STICK"

Dominion Indicates It Will Not Approve Canal Without Reciprocity

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1927, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—The Canadian cabinet and a large number of members of the parliament at Ottawa have approved of a tentative draft of a treaty of reciprocity with the United States.
Negotiations looking to a consummation of the agreement will be begun shortly.

Copies of the draft which have reached here indicate that there is little likelihood of Canada entering into an arrangement on the St. Lawrence waterway project unless a trade treaty is combined with it. A number of reasons for this exist, but chief among them is the resentment against the Fordney-McCumber tariff law. The Canadians feel that the American farmers never really benefited from that act anyhow.

In the proposed draft, the suggestion is made that the following articles come into either country free of duty:

LIST EXEMPTIONS
Cattle, poultry, wheat, and agricultural products generally, vegetables, fruits, dairy products, fish, of all kinds, timber, building materials, pulp of wood, newspapers, and all other paper and periodical other by-products of the foregoing, all of which are enumerated.

A provision has been inserted giving the states and provinces of both countries, freedom of action in the preservation of forest products. The articles relating to waterways follow in part:

"It is understood and agreed that the parties hereto shall grant permission to the state of New York and the province of Ontario at their expense and on such terms as may mutually be agreed upon to build for power purposes a shore-to-shore dam or dams on the St. Lawrence river, between the Cornwall on the Canadian side and St.
Regis on the American side of the
river provided:

"(A)—That the said state and province in consideration of the granting of such rights construct, equip and maintain in the state of New York a canal of the character and dimensions recommended in the report of the International joint waterways commission, to permit the passage of vessels between the heightened level above the dam and the level of Lake St. Francis.

"(B)—That all the work shall be performed and carried out in such a manner as to be of the utmost aid to navigation.

"(C)—That before any work is undertaken the plans and specifications shall be submitted to and approved by a joint engineering board, such as may be approved by the International Joint Waterways commission, or the personnel of which shall be determined by them.

MUST MAKE REFUND
"Article Three: It is understood and agreed that the United States and Canada shall refund to the Dominion of Canada one-half of the amounts that have been expended in the construction of the new Welland canal and that interest during construction shall be deemed part of the capital cost.

"Article Four: It is understood and agreed that the Dominion of Canada will, at its own expense, construct the canal recommended by the International Waterways Commission in connecting Lake St. Francis with the deep water at Montreal on the lines recommended by the International Joint Waterways Commission or any other modified or alternative plan that may be equally advantageous to navigation.

"It is understood and agreed that while the canal so provided shall be wholly free to the vessels and traffic of the parties hereto, whether carried in vessels of the parties hereto, or any other vessels, that the said canals shall be under the sole control and supervision of the Canadian Department of Railways and Canals, as well as the Welland canal notwithstanding that the cost thereof shall be borne by the parties hereto
as herein-before provided."

In the concluding articles, the United States is asked to agree to stop the diversion of water through the Chicago Drainage Canal, and, at its own expense, to install dams and spillways or other devices to regulate at the most desirable navigable depths
the waters of lakes Erie, Huron, Michigan and Superior with any tributaries thereof that may be used as reservoirs for low water relief."

WHAT! NO SPINACH?
HE FALLS 7 STORIES
FOR IT--AND GETS IT

Chicago—(AP)—How Harry Bulderbach, 31-year-old sign painter got his spinach is rather an odd story. Bulderbach and Leon Tipton were at work Thursday on a sign seven stories above the ground. Bulderbach, who loves spinach, thought of his favorite vegetable as he clung to a rope that trailed to the ground where it coiled in a pile.

"The thought of that spinach made me feel faint," said Bulderbach, "and I let go the rope."

Tipton said that Bulderbach struck the coiled rope, "bounced like a rubber ball got up shook himself, and said 'Tip lets go get that spinach.'"

Tipton took him to a doctor.
Bulderbach walked into the office under his own power. The doctor looked him over and said there was nothing the matter with him. Whereupon Bulderbach and Tipton sauntered across the street to a restaurant and had their iron—ala spinach.

INDIAN VILLAGE IS GIVEN MORE POLICE
BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Three More Officers for Odanah Are Assured by Washington Approval

Ashland—(AP)—Residents of Odanah, small village on the Bad River Indian reservation, are now assured of ample police protection, following efforts made by the local Indian officer for more than a year and the final granting by federal authorities of a petition signed by 14 chiefs and headmen.

A captain, a lieutenant and a private,
appointed by the local officer and approved by authorities at Washington, have been granted to the village that order may be preserved at night as well as during the day.

For a year the local officer has endeavored to secure adequate protection both day and night for the village, but requests have invariably been returned with the statement that funds were lacking. On the morning of Feb. 10, this year the body of M. F. Marks, aged druggist and the Indian officer's son-in-law, was found brutally murdered in rooms connected to his store.

Two men arrested that day are now being held in the county jail here charged with the murder.

A few more days before the Marks murder the sole officer of the village, taking a man under the influence of liquor to his home, was fired upon, the Cornwall on the Canadian side and St.
Regis on the American side of the
river provided:

"(A)—That the said state and pro-

REGAL WELCOME FOR SCHUMANN-HEINK

Members of the American Legion, the legion auxiliary and Appleton Womans club greeted Madame Schumann-Heink when she arrived here Thursday afternoon. Among those in the group which welcomed her at the North-western depot were, left to right: H. L. Plummer, national executive committee member of the legion; Mrs. S. C. Shannon, executive secretary of Appleton Womans club; D. J. Kenny, West Bend, commander of the state department of the legion; Harvey Priebe, commander of Oney Johnston Post; Mrs. L. J. Marshall, president of Appleton Womans club; Madame Schumann-Heink; F. A. Hirzy, Stevens Point, vice commander of the state department and a native of the contralto's home town in Austria; George Baldwin, who is entertaining the singer while she is in Appleton.

Noted Contralto Happy
Over Her Welcome Here

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink was given a regal welcome when she stepped off a Northwestern train here Thursday afternoon to sing a concert in Lawrence Memorial chapel Friday night. Legionnaires, members of the legion auxiliary and of Appleton Womans club crowded the depot platform when the noted singer arrived.

"Mein Gott! Was machts du hier," was her first exclamation as she stepped from the train and her eyes rested in Ferdinand A. Hirzy, Stevens Point, first vice commander of the state department of the legion, whom the famous singer has known since her days when she was a child in the contralto's home town, Austria. She did not expect to see Mr. Hirzy at the depot and she threw her arms around him as she gave vent to her joy. George Baldwin, her host while in Appleton was next to receive her attention.

Madame Schumann-Heink was escorted through a double row of legionnaires, auxiliary members and other persons and she thanked each one individually for her reception. Every moment or two she stopped to kiss and caress the national and legion post colors and it was explained she does this to show her reverence for them.

At the end of the reception line she was greeted by D. J. Kenny, West Bend, state commander of the legion, who stopped off on his way to the pre-convention meeting at Marinette; H. L. Plummer, executive committee member for Wisconsin; Harvey Priebe, commander of Johnston post; Marshall Graff, eight district commander; Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Hirzy, and Mrs. Mabel Shannon, of the Womans club.

The contralto was escorted to her car which followed another machine containing the post banners and the United States flag. A parade of several cars followed her west down W. North-st to N. Drew, on N. Drew to W. College-ave on College-ave to S. Cherry-st and then to the George Baldwin home, where she will stay during her visit here. Again the lines formed at the Baldwin gate and after the singer had reached the porch she turned and begged her friends to come in for a time.

A few friends were entertained informally at dinner Thursday evening.
Madame Schumann-Heink announced that she would remain in Appleton until Monday. Members of the Legion and the auxiliary will arrange a reception for her Saturday evening, if she desires. The reception will be held to give her a chance to meet
"her boys."

Commander Kenny announced that he will return Friday evening from Marinette for her concert. Roy Hahert is in charge of the Johnston post color guard at the depot, assisted by Carl Becher and R. M. Connelly.

Both the Idaho senate and the president of Columbia university are Republicans.

2 TRAINS PLUNGE INTO FLOOD; 2 MEN MISSING

Parsons, Kans.—(AP)—Two enginemen of Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train No. 22, northbound from San Antonio, Texas, were missing, and about 15 persons injured, several severely, after two trains on separate tracks of the railroad plunged from the rails into flood waters, about 20 miles north of here early Friday.

THREE INCHES OF SNOW COVER ASHLAND STREETS

Ashland—(AP)—Following three weeks during which streets and yards in the city have been laid bare of snow, citizens of Ashland rose Friday morning with the thermometer at 32 degrees to find the green tinged grass covered with a three-inch blanket of snow. Snow was still falling heavily at 8:30 Friday morning with no sign of a let up.

DAMROSCH BREAKS DOWN

New York—(AP)—Walter Damrosch partially collapsed Thursday night and finished his last concert as regular conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra from a chair. He was aided by a few pages from the end of the difficult score of "Gottterdammerung" when the strain became too great for him. He motioned for a chair and slumped into it, still waving his baton.
The audience called him back time and again at the end of the concert.
After the tenth recall he broke down and cried as he left the platform. He recently submitted to an operation for

BUTLER TO DEBATE
BORAH ON DRY ISSUE

Active Speculators Ask $20 for Tickets; Are Scarce as for Football Classic

Boston—(AP)—Tickets for Friday night's debate on prohibition between Senator Borah, Idaho, and Nicholas Murray Butler were as scarce as for a football classic, while some active speculators were asking $20 a ticket.
The acceptance by William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, of an invitation to occupy a place on the platform survived to ease rumors of a possible Republican split brought to the open with the withdrawal of Frank W.
Stearns, another friend of President
Coolidge, from the Roosevelt Club,
Inc., which is sponsoring the debate.

Mr. Butler's decision came on the heels of a statement from his son, Morgan, that he had returned his tickets to the debate because he was not interested.

That Republican harmony was not yet all it might be, however, was indicated by news that the state committee had ignored an invitation from Robert M. Washburn, president of the club, to send a representative to occupy a place on the platform. As a result, Mr. Butler will be alone with Mr. Washburn and the two speakers.

One explanation of Mr. Stearns' refusal was unwillingness to participate in a discussion of whether the Republican platform should take cognizance of the prohibition question because he believed the issue was not one which the party ought to bring forward at this time. Mr. Stearns, himself, however, declined to comment.

Both the Idaho senate and the president of Columbia university are Republicans.

DAWES CLAIMS
REED YET HAS PROBE POWER

Appoints Senator Fess to Succeed Goff—Reed Busy
in Ford Case

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Decision by Vice President Dawes that the senate campaign funds investigating committee has authority to function during the recess of congress Friday provoked considerable comment and speculation in the capital.

The position of the vice president, although in line with the views of a number of the senate's distinguished constitutional lawyers, runs counter to that of his party leaders and Chairman Keyes of the audit and control committee, who has refused to approve vouchers for expenditures by the committee, said he would consider General Dawes' statement most carefully before making up his mind as to whether he would change his attitude.

Dr. Dawes made his announcement in Chicago upon his return Thursday from a vacation trip to Panama. He said he was guided by the supreme court decision in the Mal S. Daugherty case that the senate and its committees are a continuing body, and announced the appointment of Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, to succeed Senator Goff, Republican, West Virginia, who recently resigned from the committee.

The question of the right of the recess committee to continue work during the congressional recess arose when the filibuster in the closing days of the last congress prevented action on a resolution specifically continuing the committee. The leaders of this filibuster also have been instrumental in throwing obstacles in the pathway of the committee since that time, and whether the vice-president's decision that the supreme court ruling will serve to remove any of those obstacles remains to be seen.

REED IS BUSY

Detroit—(AP)—Further inquiry into campaign expenditures by the United States senate committee headed by Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, Missouri, necessarily must be held in abeyance until he "gets through here," Mr. Reed said Friday. He has probably several weeks more of work ahead here as chief counsel for Henry Ford in his $1,000,000 libel suit brought by Aaron Sapiro.

The ruling by Vice President Dawes that the committee still lives despite the adjournment of the sixty-ninth congress, supported previous contentions by Senator Reed. Senator Reed would announce no plan for place or time of resumption of the hearings.

Both the Idaho senate and the president of Columbia university are Republicans.

SIZE OF LIE COUNTS
MORE THAN SIZE OF
FISH, IKES EXPLAIN

Chicago—(AP)—Fish storying—and how—is discussed in a brief set of rules which was before the Isaiah Walton league convention
Friday. The "rules for liars" makes only the sky the limit in the attempt to regulate the yarn telling of the Waltonian Munchaussens.

"Lies may be told at any time or place, and to any person except ing a game warden," under Rule
No. 1.

Emerging cameras be used,
scales may be "corrected" and elastic rulers may be employed, under another regulation.

Fish may be "borrowed, rented or purchased" whenever there is danger of a lie being disbelieved.

Bribery of guides "to confirm lies" is legitimized under rule
No. 4. Lies should never be retracted, the regulations warn, but there is nothing to prevent lies being added to at will.

"The license of any liar shall be revoked," the rules provide. "If he lies about his golf score, the weight of his baby or the age of his whisky."

ZIMMERMAN WARNS
STATE LEGISLATURE
OF ECONOMY NEEDS

Remitting of Taxes Has Depleted General Fund, He Says as He Vetoes Bill

Madison—(AP)—Governor Fred R.
Zimmerman reiterated a warning to the state legislature Friday when he vetoed a $55,000 appropriation measure for the state penitentiary because of lower funds in the "general treasury." The bill calling for the expenditure for cells in the north wing of the prison at Waupun, originated in the senate.

"Again the practice of recent years in remitting state taxes," the governor said, "has so depleted the general treasury that, unless some unforeseen receipts become available, a sizeable deficit will follow at the end of the present biennium. I shall be compelled to insist that before appropriations are made there is assurance that funds will be available to meet emergencies so that necessary appropriations may not be lost for lack of funds."

"The people of the state are demanding rigid economy in public expenditure just as many citizens are required to practice economy in private affairs."

The governor said that no pressing need existed for the construction of the cells. He cited a previous appropriation made by the legislature which was not used until seven years later, work which is now being carried on and which will give the prison 160 new cells. The vetoed bills would have added $0 cells to the prison, completing the proposed unit.

GOVERNOR ASKS UNIFORM GAME LAWS FOR STATE

Chicago—(AP)—Uniform laws to save wild life in the north woods states from the "game hog" is the aim of Governor Fred R. Zimmerman of Wisconsin, who has invited the governors of Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, and Minnesota to meet with him during the week of May 3 to 14. Governor Zim-merman's conservation conference is to be held in Chicago during the outdoor life exposition.

The north woods is experiencing a terrible loss of wild game because of the "game hog," according to Governor Zimmerman. "Hunters will kill their share of game in one state and then jump to another state that has a different open season and kill more."
The Wisconsin executive said. Uniform laws will stop this, he hopes.

BIG OIL RUN MAY LOWER GAS PRICE DURING SUMMER

Amazing Output of Seminole Field in Oklahoma Increases Production

BY JOHN W. HILL
The American motoring public should be able to take its joy rides and its summer tours at a lower cost this summer. There is every prospect of cheaper gasoline prices.

It now seems probable that there will be further huge over-production of crude oil this year. This means lower prices, from crude oil to gasoline.

That prospect stands today in the face of the greatest winter consumption of gasoline ever known. In January the country's 20,000,000 motor cars burned up 17 per cent more gas than was used in January, 1926. February consumption ran 30 per cent ahead of one year ago.

But meanwhile production is leaping ahead by great bounds. The daily average output of crude oil has reached approximately 2,500,000 barrels. Never before in the history of the industry has that figure been attained.

TWO REASONS FOR BOOST
Two factors are chiefly responsible for this startling rise in production. One is the amazing output developed by the new Seminole field in Oklahoma. The other is the widely spreading use of improved methods of accelerating the output of wells. This improvement in technology is known as the "gas lift."

Of immediate significance is the Seminole field. Early in February this field had shown its ability to produce 300,000 barrels of oil daily. Such a huge output completely overtaxed pipe lines designed to carry away the oil.

The full output of the field is estimated at 550,000 barrels daily. That is about 14 per cent of the aggregate production of the country. With such an enormous supply of new oil pressing upon the market something has got to give. That something will be prices, say oil officials.

PRODUCTION IS HASTENED

Or even greater significance than the Seminole development is the appearance of the new "gas lift" equipment in the great oil fields of the country. By the use of the "gas lift," natural gas, a by-product of oil wells, is reintroduced into the oil sand. This stimulates the flow of oil to the top. After the natural flow ceases only a small portion of recoverable oil is left in the ground to be obtained by pumping. Formerly a large portion was left.

WOMAN FINED $1 AND COSTS FOR "U" TURN

Pleading guilty to making a "U" turn on W. College-ave, Mrs. Rudolph Becker, 317 W. College-ave, was fined $1 and costs Thursday morning in municipal court by Judge Theodore Berg. When she attempted to turn around in the 500 block on W. College-ave last Tuesday morning, she struck an automobile driven by Rowley Parker, 312 W. Commercial-st, police reported.

Of each 100 barrels of oil contained in oil sand, it is possible under present methods to recover only about 25 barrels. The "gas lift" is making it possible to speed up greatly the production of oil over a given period. Experts believe it may even increase the total amount of oil that may be recovered.

But the immediate unmistakable effect of the new method is to intensify output. By the use of it producers are getting from two to three times as much oil a day as formerly. This is having an increasingly tremendous effect upon total production and upon market conditions.

KIMBERLY MAN BEATS WIFE AND BREAKS FURNITURE

John Dickermann Is Held in County Jail on Peace Warrant

John Dickermann, Kimberly, is being held in the county jail on a peace warrant as a result of a rampage he conducted at his home early Thursday morning.

Returning home shortly after midnight, apparently in none too good humor, he entered his wife's bedroom, pulled her out of bed, and started to beat her, she reported. She finally freed herself and ran to a neighbor's house, from where she telephoned for Sheriff Otto H. Zuchlik.

Sheriff Zuchlik called Otto Wickert, under-sheriff, and they started for Kimberly together.

Dickermann, in the meantime, who had become more thoroughly angered because his wife got away from him, started on a tour through his home, breaking furniture, dishes, and everything he could lay his hands on. When the sheriff and his assistant arrived there, they found broken vic-

CHOIR SPONSORS MUSICAL COMEDY

"In Hinkley Doodle Town" is the name of the musical comedy which will be presented by the choir of Sacred Heart church on Sunday and Monday, April 24 and 25, at the church auditorium. The cast of characters and cast for the chorus numbers will be completed within a few days, and programs will be sent to the printer.

The number of tourists in Switzerland during the past season was fully 50,000 less than in the previous year.

Records, splintered chairs, smashed dishes and torn curtains strewn about the rooms.

Dickermann had retired by this time, and when the sheriff entered the former's bedroom, he found Dickermann in bed, and a hatchet beneath the bed.

Dickermann was taken to the county jail and is being held there on a peace warrant until he is arraigned in court.

GOES TO JAIL FOR RESISTING ARREST

James Arnold, Kimberly, Is Sentenced to 30 Days for Striking Marshal

Resisting an officer is not an advisable practice, James Arnold, Kimberly, learned Thursday morning when arraigned in municipal court. Despite his pleas for leniency, Judge Theodore Berg gave him a severe lecture and sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail.

Arnold, said to be a recent arrival at Kimberly, was arrested in that village Wednesday night by Frank VanLieshout, marshal, for being disorderly. While the marshal was leading his prisoner to the lock-up, the latter suddenly turned on the officer, struck him in the face with his fist, and started to run away.

Marshal VanLieshout called for help, and Arnold was recaptured a few minutes later. The marshal then

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR SUPPLIES FOR WATER EXTENSIONS

Grant Permission to Chicago Man to Install Oil Tanks

Menasha — The water and light committee, to whom the bids were referred at the meeting of the committee on Thursday evening, awarded the contract for more than 6,000 feet of water pipe to the American Gas and Pipe company; the contract for a quantity of valves to the Darling Valve company; and the trenching to Aylward Brothers. The awarding of the contract for laying the pipe was put over by the street committee until the installation of sewerage water mains. The only bid was submitted by Joseph Scheldner company.

The street committee recommended that the petition of A. F. Weber of Chicago to install three tanks, gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oil, each of 50,000 gallons capacity, at the site of the former Miller warehouse be accepted. The first report of the committee recommended the rejection of the proposition. Mayor Remmel inquired the reason and Alderman Fahrenkrug informed him it was because of the fire hazard and the possibility of insurance rates. Naming if the tanks were installed.

Mr. Weber was invited to address the council. He said intention was to install the tanks and do a jobbing business. He favored Menasha because of its central location. The erection of the tanks here would mean the burning of the entire families to Menasha, the giving of employment to several local men, he said.

The monthly financial statement showed the following balances, on March 31: General fund, $161,280.33; water and light fund, $20,651.65; board of education, $103,767.14; central board, $8,091.51; library, $29,520.55; firemen pension fund, $7,753; cemetery fund, $4,056.47; recreation, $3,400.85.

Former Mayor T. E. McGillion, president of Fox River valley baseball league, was granted permission to address the council. He said he was down to Madison a week ago to see about having Governor Zimmerman attend the opening game on May 15. The executive agreed to accept the invitation.

Mr. McGillion was anxious to have the governor give of the city on that day. He suggested that the common council send him a formal invitation. This the aldermen consented to do. Mr. McGillion was accompanied by the Menasha baseball team.

The municipal vote was canvassed by Alderman Coyne. The council and the committee appointed by Mayor Remmel. Accounts for the previous month were allowed. A claim of more than $450 was filed against the city by Myrtle Winters.

The street committee reported on pavement and sewer hearings of property owners of certain streets to be improved this season and as the contracts have been awarded the council adopted a resolution overruling all objections. Second-st property owners offered the greatest number of objections. The question of who should pay for the storm sewers resulted in a spirited discussion between the city engineer and city attorney. The former insisted that it devolved upon the city and the latter held it to be an obligation of property owners.

Three applications for licenses for pool drink parlors were heard. Mayor Remmel said he had written for an opinion to the attorney general and said no action on them would be taken until he received it. Petitions for additional electric light and water service were referred to the committee on water and light and committee of the whole. It was 1:15 Friday morning when the council adjourned.

Talking, Seeing Phone Success In First Trial

New York — Science took a giant step forward Friday when the "talking and seeing" telephone was put in operation between New York and Washington.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover in Washington talked with President Harding S. Gifford of the American Telegraph and Telephone company in New York, and Mr. Gifford could see Mr. Hoover over the telephone as distinctly as he could hear him talk.

It was the first formal demonstration of television, the latest accomplishment of the American Telegraph and Telephone company which Mr.

Hoover, in his talk over the telephone hailed as among "The most dramatic and impressive achievements of science."

After Hoover and Gifford had finished their conversations and after newspaper men in New York talked to reporters in Washington, seeing them by television as they conversed, a demonstration of television communication by radio was given.

SEE RADIO PROGRAM
The Bell Telephone laboratories in New York, where the demonstration here was being given, was connected with the telephone company's radio station, 3XX, located at Whippany, N. J., and within a few minutes the audience was hearing and seeing at the same time a radio performance transmitted by television from Whippany, twenty miles away.

During both the telephone and radio demonstrations a large screen was set up on the stage of the Auditorium. The telephone circuit, and in the later demonstration, the radio circuit, were connected with the screen and with a loud-speaking receiver. The face of the person on the other end of the line appeared before the speaker here in a special receiving apparatus for television, and, at the same time was thrown, in enlarged form, upon the screen. Thus, the audience was enabled to watch the facial expression of the speaker miles away as he talked.

KILL BILL FIXING JUDGES' WORKING DAY

Madison—(AP)—The resolution by Assemblyman Coleman asking for a legislative committee to investigate the feasibility of establishing a state court plant was laid over by the assembly Thursday until next week, when a larger number of members will be present to discuss the matter.

The measure could not be voted upon yesterday because it makes an appropriation for the proposed committee's expenses. All appropriation measures require a roll call and such a move would have revealed the lack of a quorum and discontinuance of the meeting.

The resolution was recommended for indefinite postponement by the state affairs committee.

Three bills were killed during Thursday's brief session.

One was by Assemblyman Klesner, commanding judges to work eight hours a day, and making them forfeit twenty-five dollars for failure to do so or a month's salary for failure to report decisions in cases they take under advisement inside of thirty days.

Two senate bills were concurred in. One, by Sen. Barker, enables towns as well as counties to condemn land for highway purposes. The other was a minor amendment.

ZWICKER ELECTED COMMISSIONER OF VALLEY COUNCIL

Heads of Other Boy Scout Committees Are Filled by Executive Board

Walter Zwickler, Appleton, deputy Scout commissioner of the Valley council, was elected Scout commissioner, an office heretofore unfilled, by the council executive board Wednesday evening. Board members present were President F. N. Belanger, E. J. Cahali, William Falatich, Appleton; Mowry Smith, H. L. Gear and William Halin, Menasha; Dr. T. J. Sellen, Neenah.

Mowry Smith was appointed chairman of the council finance committee, H. L. Gear, chairman of the troop organization committee, and E. J. Cahali, chairman of the committee on the weekend camp project, declaring it must be close to and readily accessible for all Scouts of the valley, irrespective of any special transportation facilities, whereas a permanent summer camp might be at a greater distance.

The board favored a nearby weekend camp, available for use all the year around. Mr. Gear announced that the Menasha district committee has a special committee working on the project now. As Mr. Schultz is chairman of both the Menasha and the Valley committee, it was decided that the committee would be able to function for both. It was said that if one site was secured, the matter of housing would be simple.

After a discussion it was decided that the board should meet every other month, making five meetings a year, with special meetings to be called when needed. The camp committee was requested to call another board meeting as soon as its report was ready. It was decided to charge the advancement cards furnished to Scouts off to the troop in the revolving accounts, as they could not properly be charged to office supplies.

The president and secretary were authorized to approve and sign checks for payment of salaries and telephone bills as they came due without waiting for action by the executive board.

Application for charter of Troop 8, First Congregational church, Appleton, was approved.

PROBING THE POLITICAL MIND

Illustrating the fact that no one can ever tell what will happen in an election, we find the proposed constitutional amendment to increase legislative salaries defeated, while the amendment which would permit reforested cut-over lands to be exempt temporarily from taxation was adopted. The Wisconsin political temper would have suggested to us exactly the reverse result. The constitutional amendment adopted, while undoubtedly sound and of real value to the state, should logically have been opposed by the Progressives on the ground that it constituted a concession to capitalism; while the other amendment should have been adopted on the ground that the men down at Madison who are making it hot for the manufacturers and all others who succeed in making a little money, should be rewarded for their service to "the cause." The psychology of the voter is beyond us. It should be the subject of investigation by our university.

Here we have members of the legislature, who might otherwise be building up their fame and fortune, sacrificing themselves to an unfeeling and ungrateful public at a pittance of $500 every two years. And now this same public which has apparently applauded legislative extravagance, rank tax legislation and excesses of prejudice against banks, business and anything it could find, refuses to reward the performance by a beggarly increase in salary—an increase so small it would cost the average individual a two-cent postage stamp. What are we to infer? Of course if the legislature is worth anything at all to the state, it is worth enough to at least pay its traveling and hotel expenses while it is in session, something the state is not now doing.

Possibly, as one member has suggested, the people are so disgusted with the legislature they would like to see it close down and cease to function for a time. In retaliation against this theory it is proposed by another legislator that the members go on a strike. Either alternative would be a blessing in disguise. Outside of the appropriation bills, we could afford to have a closed season on legislation for a considerable term of years. Apparently few would miss the legislature and many would be glad to see it go. This conclusion may be drawn from the public refusal to pay it enough to live on. Cannot Mr. Blaine or Mr. LaFollette's son do something to save the legislator's purse and pride? Surely he is being shamefully treated. We did not expect ingratitude. The question now is, if a Wisconsin legislator is not worth $250 a year, how much is he worth? We appeal to Mr. Blaine for the answer. Or perhaps Mr. Chase or Mr. Cashman could give it to us.

NEW CRISIS IN FAR EAST

The raiding of the Soviet embassy at Peking by northern troops, under orders of Marshal Chang Tse-lin, may create a crisis in Russo-Chinese relations. According to cabled reports the raid was a deliberate attack upon the Russian soviet by the Manchurian war lord, who has all along been the implacable foe of bolshevism. Undoubtedly Chang had a sufficient reason for his resentment against the Russians and their insidious propaganda. Already they have undermined his rule in Shanghai and the Yangtze valley districts, which are lost, and the drive is on to Peking.

Moscow can easily make the Peking incident an excuse for armed invasion of northern and western China. The probability is that it will be restrained from such a course by the certainty that it would precipitate armed intervention in China and resistance of the soviet by Great Britain, Japan and probably other powers. The powers may not be able to prevent communism from worming its way into the social and political fabric of China, if that is to be China's fate, but they will never permit the Russianizing of China by military action. This new phase of an already critical situation is of the deepest interest.

THE DISARMAMENT
CONFERENCE

France has declined President Coolidge's second invitation to be represented at the three-power conference called by the United States for the reduction of naval armament, which is to meet at Geneva. The president originally endeavored to make it a five-power conference, including besides Great Britain and Japan, France and Italy; but the two latter nations found excuses for turning down the proposal. After the president had secured the assent of Great Britain and Japan, he requested the attendance of representatives of the French and Italian governments as unofficial observers, not to be bound either by discussion or by conclusions reached. France rejects the second invitation on the same ground on which it rejected the first; namely, that it does not wish to embarrass the League of Nations' general disarmament movement by participating in a conference dealing with a restricted phase of disarmament.

This is of course a disingenuous response. Great Britain is probably as much concerned about the prestige of the League as France or any other nation. It is certainly vitally concerned in anything pertaining to disarmament. Japan's interest is minor to that of Great Britain, but its loyalty to League activities in furtherance of peace is not questioned. Neither of these two great powers, one of which dominates the sea in the west and the other in the east, finds anything inconsistent in attending Mr. Coolidge's conference and in the work upon which the League is engaged. Neither raises the question of weakening the authority of the League, or of complicating its efforts in behalf of general disarmament.

Furthermore, reports from Europe dealing with League disarmament activities are anything but encouraging. France's attitude is disappointing. It is difficult for Americans to believe there is a genuine desire on the part of the French government to engage in a policy of reduced armament, or to lend its support to a movement which we in this country believe to be essential to better international relations and to the economic recovery of Europe. France's attitude will not improve her political standing in America.

OLD MASTERS

God, we don't like to complain.
We know that the mine is no lark—
But—there's the pools from the rain;
But—there's the cold and the dark.

God, you don't know what it is—
You, in your well-lighted sky;
Watching the meteors whiz;
Warm, with the sun always by.

God, if you had but the moon
Stuck in your lap for a lamp,
Even you'd tire of it soon.
Down in the dark and the damp.

Nothing but blackness above,
And nothing that moves but the cars—
God, if you wish for our love,
Fling us a handful of stars!

Marks of the typical American exterior are a heavy tread in men and a quick provocative step in women, confides a magazine writer. Absolutely—always stepping out. . . And you always can tell where an American comes from—if he has a Boston accent his home is sure to be in Coffeyville, Kansas, and if he speaks with a soft southern drawl you can almost be sure that his home is South Bethlehem, Pa., but that he went to school for six months at Washington, D. C. . . You always know a New Yorker too. He is the man from Bloomington, Ill., who says "sholt." . . Abroad you can pick the American every time. ## TEN YEARS IS TIME ENOUGH

Recently in answering an inquiry about the possibility of removing tattooing from the skin, I informed the correspondent that the only way mutilation can be removed is by surgical excision or cutting out the skin, perhaps with a flap or graft of normal skin transplanted to fill the defect. This is feasible only when the mutilated portion is comparatively small in area. I added that the person who committed the mutilation ought to get 10 years in prison.

Another correspondent seeks to learn the identity and address of the tattooed victim— which, of course, I cannot divulge—and asks a question which I have been waiting for.

"You would give the tattoo artist 10 years. Why not make it life?"

Life imprisonment is a reasonable penalty for unpremeditated murder and certain other vicious crimes. It would be relatively unjust, excessive punishment to imprison a person for life for tattooing another person who voluntarily submitted to the mutilation. If we deem life imprisonment fair and just punishment for this comparatively low degree of felony, then hanging, shooting, electrocution or other forms of execution are inadequate.

The tattooing of the human skin, for any purpose save to conceal or render less conspicuous actual blemishes, is not a crime under the statutes, but it should be legally designated a felony, as is mayhem or maiming of a limb.

The tattooing of pictures, insignia or other devices on the skin, whether these are in themselves artistic or obscene, is a crime against nature. The person who voluntarily submits to the mutilation of his skin should receive some punishment, too. He needs punishment to teach him greater respect for his own body.

If our children were rightly instructed about human physiology and hygiene in school they would scarcely succumb to the impulse to have these shameful marks indelibly impressed upon their bodies. A man or woman with a fair education cannot so mistreat his or her own body.

But even though we give our children a dirty deal in the way of education, even though we fail to inculcate in their minds a wholesome respect for their own bodies and incidentally other people, everybody, who should not endeavor to right the wrong by making this crime a serious one and thus putting a damper on this ungodly practice?

Years ago the amateur psychologists said a good deal about the "stigmata of degeneracy," these being oddities or abnormalities of feature which the psychologists attempted to associate with the "criminal class." Of course this was a mere fancy which we no longer entertain seriously. There is no "criminal class"—you and I and our esteemed neighbors are all alike—and all crimes are equally heinous. Whether we have outstanding ears or other folk are, whether we have outstanding ears or not. But in medical practice when the physician observes decorative tattooing on the patient's skin the doctor properly draws certain deductions which have a bearing on the patient's history and the diagnosis. The mark tells the doctor that the patient is or in the past has been aberrant. In short, the mutilation is a badge of shame.

Springtime Vagaries

Is your hair coming out? I can recommend something to keep it in. A cigar box. (H. O. K.)

I have tried everything that purports to stop falling hair and I now believe the only thing that will stop it is the floor. (L. H.)

Answer—Falling hair is no joke. These comments are published here merely as curious antiquities. My observation on this subject has been that in the spring the fall is most noticeable. In the spring the young man's fancy fondly turns to hair restorers, dandruff remedies and slick-em-dope for his hair. Before my own hair fell I used to talk more confidently on the subject than I do now. But even now I think I have about all the solid facts relating to the care of the hair in the little monograph which I am glad to send to any reader who needs advice about oily hair, dandruff, loss of hair or the growth of the hair, provided the reader incloses with his request a stamped envelope bearing his address.

Work of rebuilding the track of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, between Hilbert Junction and Appleton, was to begin the latter part of the month. It is expected that the work will be completed by the end of the month.

Navigation on the Fox River opened the previous day. A new statue of St. Joseph was put into place at St. Joseph church the previous day and was to be formally unveiled and dedicated on April 20. The unveiling of the statue was to take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the Rev. Father Donahue, of the Holy Trinity church, was to deliver the sermon. The church was also to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the day when St. Joseph church passed under the control of the Capuchin fathers.

A son was born that morning to Mr. and Mrs. Felzer, 498 Eldorado-st.

War on Germany was declared at 1:13 that afternoon when President Wilson signed the joint resolution passed by the house and senate. The state department informed the Swiss minister representing German interests in the United States of this country's action and the minister was to communicate the word formally to Bern by cable and thence to Berlin. All United States representatives were to receive the news within the next 24 hours.

Orders calling out the 1st and 2nd Wisconsin Infantry regiments were expected within the next 24 hours. It had been announced from the office of Adjutant General Holmes at Madison.

A marriage license was issued that morning by County Clerk Wolf to Arthur C. Kranszuch and Irene M. Park, both of Appleton.

Mrs. C. L. Marston, Park-ave., entertained the Fiction circle and a number of friends at her home the previous day in honor of Mrs. Ray Mones of Chicago.

Final preparations for the giant loyalty demonstration to be held in Appleton the following Monday afternoon were made at a meeting of the central and executive committees at 7:20 that night.

The central committee was composed of one representative of all fraternal and patriotic organizations represented at the meeting on the previous Wednesday. Indications were that at least 10,000 would participate in the parade.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

TO DEDICATE OR NOT TO DEDICATE

Professor J. A. Barnouw of Columbia University points out that in the matter of dedicating books we are more honest and sincere than our ancestors. Not because we are more sincere by nature but because we can afford to be honest about dedication and they could not.

In the old days, a couple of hundred years ago, the author's problem was not to find a publisher, as it is today, but to find a person to whom he could dedicate it. That involved the consent of the person so honored to stand the expense of printing the book and paying the author for his pains in writing it. Today the publisher shoulders the cost of publication and pays the author a royalty in the old times the author had to stand the expense himself and if he had no money he had to find some one who could be flattered into paying the bill. Hence the almost intolerable fulsomeness of dedications in most of the books printed a couple of centuries ago.

It is interesting to go through a research library of English literature for the sole purpose of reading the dedications in the first editions of old books. No writer of today would dream of saying the things about the person to whom his book is dedicated that the old authors did. If it had not all happened so long ago as we are apt to forget, it is almost impossible to imagine the degree of abasement that authors voluntarily assumed for the mere sake of getting their volumes published and it makes us ashamed of human nature.

The oldtime author perhaps had produced a book on which he had worked for years. He knew it to be a good book, one that would live and that contained wisdom that the world needed. Perhaps he also knew a man who was not only stupid but a scoundrel, one who could no more understand what the book was about than he could grasp the idea of the categorical imperative of Kant. But the author, one of the world's choicest spirits, had to abase himself before such a boor and had to say in his dedication that said boor was an apostle of wisdom and culture, that the author was not worthy of being the patron's boots. He had to indulge in flattery that must often have caused him spiritual nausea, but if he did not it he could not get a hearing. That was what the system of patronage did to literature.

Today the author is freed from that galling duty. He can dedicate or not dedicate his book as he sees fit. Many authors look upon the practice of dedicating a book as childish. But those who like to do so as a rule do not dedicate their books to people of influence or position; people from whom they expect a handout. Their dedications often are or at least may be to close friends, people who have the same interests. Hence dedications are on the whole far more sincere than in the old days. And also, they are far briefer. An old-time dedication usually covered a whole page, often more than one page. It was not possible to spread the flattery on thick enough in less space. Today, when flattery is no longer needed in a dedication, it frequently consists merely of "To So-and-So," or simply "To B. A." or some such initials that mean nothing to the public. The dedication then is a secret between author and the person honored, a private matter.

The office of flatterer has been taken over by the publisher. The part taken in old times by the patron has been assumed by the public. For as of old the patron paid the expenses of publication and an honorarium for the author, so today the public pays. And the new patron must be flattered, the same as the old. So the publisher spreads it on thick in the "blurbs" about the books he publishes. He does not flatter the public directly but by implication. He says that every new book that comes out is the greatest and the wisest and the profoundest book ever published, and of course the great and wise public will find in it the mental food it requires. So it is urgently requested to buy the volume—in other words, to pay the publication bill, plus author's royalty, publisher's profits.

The methods are different but they amount to the same thing in the end. Dedications are simpler and more sincere but "blurbs" are just as ridiculous as the kind of thing indulged in by the writers of old.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York: In a place where "front" has so high a batting average, young men of the collar ad variety pay handsome income taxes on salaries earned by showing what the well-dressed man should wear.

It is their business literally to force a certain cut or pattern down the throats of those who play follow the leader where styles are concerned.

One of the outstanding men's clothes models in Manhattan makes upwards of $20,000 a year. He is married and, I believe, has a family. His strutting is done entirely for business purposes and, unlike so many "tops" who reap the latest style and go dandying around, he projects an air of unpretentiousness. It's all in a day's work with him and with a great many of his fellows who pose for the clothing ads or display new models at public affairs.

Few persons of prominence follow the mob-made modes. On Broadway the "prominent names"—particularly among the actors—demand individual and exclusive styles, dismissing tailors who dare make other suits of the same material and expressing great annoyance if a copy is seen.

Among the old-timers, the dignity of the past still rules. John Drew is seldom, if ever, seen about town minus his severe frock coat. Otto Kahn generally affects a frock coat also, sometimes appearing in a dark business suit of severe lines. Lew Fields, of the old Weber and Fields, R. H. Sothern, George Arliss and other great ones of yesteryear are famed for their sartorial dignity. Lowell Sherman and Signor de Sigurlo, the ex-opera singer, invariably wear monocoes, while Morris Reed is known from coast to coast by the eccentric hats of ancient vintage he wears.

The same changes one finds in the oldsters can be found in the traditions.

For instance—the Waldorf celebrated its 34th birthday the other day. Anyone harking back would recall that it was an opening dignified by such attractions as a symphony orchestra opening and other ceremonies were in keeping.

Today a new hotel opens its doors to the jazz-strains of the syncopation. Its 34th birthday is celebrated with hip pockets, and even the sedate old Waldorf has had to surrender to a roof garden plus saxophones.

The story goes about Broadway of a ham actor who, in years ago, had played the ghost in "Hamlet." He had picked up a job playing a ghost for a bunch of fake spiritualists. Just before a seance he got a bit tight.

The medium, calling upon "little brighties" for a message, asked if anything had been sent for Mr. X.

The seanced ghost, getting his lines mixed, harked back to Shakespeare and burst: "Alas, poor yoke! I knew him not."

E. E. The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company is the largest chain store in existence, operating 14,000 stores throughout the United States.

Q. Who were the original members of the Saturday Club? M. E. P.

A. Those who may be called undoubted original members, as so considered in the year 1856, given in alphabetical order, were Louis Agassiz, Richard Dana, Jr., J. S. Dwight, Ralph Waldo Emerson, E. R. Hoar, J. R. Lowell, J. L. Motley, Benjamin Pierce, Samuel Gray Ward, E. P. Whipple, Horatio Woodman. Longfellow was later a member of the Club.

Q. What is the weight of a dollar bill? Do all bills weigh the same? E. A. F.

A. The office of the Treasurer of the United States says that it takes twenty and a half dollar bills to make the same amount as a standard silver dollar. Since one standard silver dollar weighs 412.50 grains, one bill would weigh 20 1/2 plus grains. All paper money weighs the same.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

IT NEVER EATS OR SLEEPS FROM BIRTH TO DEATH

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

Have you ever noticed or marked the life span of a May fly, from its surprising birth through a frolicsome day, only to die with no night? The life of a May fly is a strange mixture of joy and tragedy. Sitting by a waterside you may have noticed tiny black creatures drifting up from the muddy bottom where they have lived for two or three years. Then as they reach the surface of the water a startling metamorphosis occurs. Their skins split open down the back and there emerges the dainty May fly, to enjoy its one day of adult life.

It flutters to rest on a nearby twig again shedding its skin. It is the only insect that sheds its skin after acquiring wings, then starting forth on its journey. During the course of its flight, the May fly finds its mate; their married life lasts but an hour or so, then each goes waywardly on again.

But while on the wing the May flies spread out over the water and instinctively plant their eggs where they will have a chance to hatch out. Then as they use up their small supply of vitality they sink to rest and

Y. M. C. A. PLANS $35,000 DRIVE APRIL 18 TO 23

Money Is Needed to Help Pay for Addition and Make Up War-time Deficit

Dates for a $35,000 campaign were set by the board of directors of Appleton Y. M. C. A. from April 18 to 23. It was announced at the organization meeting of campaign workers Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The drive will be directed by C. F. Coykendale, secretary of the financial bureau of the national council of the association, who has been in Appleton for the last week preparing the campaign. Mr. Coykendale made a financial survey of the local association some time ago and agreed to return to aid with the campaign.

The $35,000 drive is for the purpose of completing payments for the new addition erected three years ago, to make up a slight war-time deficit, to provide necessary improvements to keep the building up to date. The new addition contains several boys club rooms, 18 new dormitories, and a large handball court.

Organization of the drive was completed at the Wednesday evening meeting. Every team captain was re-presented and work on lining up team members was started by the captains Thursday. The captains draw for workers. The first checkup meeting will be held at 6 o'clock next Tuesday evening. The opening dinner will be held Monday evening, April 18.

The investment of the Y. M. C. A. has increased from $120,000 in 1915 to $185,000 in 1927 through purchase of additional land and additions to the building. It was reported. The present plant could not be reproduced for less than $300,000. The association has nearly trebled its financial value in 14 years and to safeguard this investment the debt must be removed. Jamesville built a new association building a year ago about the size of Appleton's at a cost of $200,000 and Green Bay spent $550,000 for a new building about 60 per cent larger than Appleton, reports showed.

The campaign organization committee is composed of A. C. Bamley, general chairman; G. F. Werner, aide C. F. Coykendale, campaign adviser; F. J. Harwood, association president; and A. P. Tuttle, treasurer. The executive committee is Dr. J. S. Reeve, Judson Rosebush, H. W. Huttup, Dr. J. A. Holmes, J. A. Wood, J. N. Fisher, W. H. Falatic, George Nixon, R. K. Wolter and Frank Sager.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Of course the queer horse didn't go, but sort of teetered to and fro. The Tynmites stood and watched a while. Then Clowry loudly cried, "That surely looks like fun, all right. I'll bet you have to hang on tight. Perhaps, if we are very good, you'll let us have a ride."

The kind old lady looked around, and then she slid down to the ground. Said she, "Why, sure! Hop on the horse. You'll make a funny sight. The Tynmites seemed to hesitate, so she continued, "Well, why wait? You needn't be afraid. The horse is wood, and will not bite."

The roving horse had runners long, and Clowry soon found they were strong. He stood upon them for a while and then he shouted, "Gee, come on and join me, everyone." And so they did, and all had fun until they'd rocked until they all were dizzy as could be.

They made the kind old lady roar. She then hopped on and rode some more. Just then the bunch looked up and saw a girl not far away. A little lamb was at her side. "Oh, I know her," were Clowry cried. "That's Mary, and her little lamb. Let's join the two, and play."

"Course Mary of her lamb was proud, and as she stopped to greet the crowd, she said, "Howdy do, you like my pet? It's friendly as a rule. It plays with me where I go, from dawn till night, and do you know, it often causes trouble when it follows me to school."

"Is that where you are going now?" asked Clowry. "Well, I'll tell you how I'll save you lots of trouble, if you'll do just as I say, just leave the lamb with us. No doubt, it will play around 'till school is out. Of course we'll gladly watch it, and you'll have no woe today."

(The Tynmites are frightened by barking dogs in the next story.)

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Before Bob could answer, Mr. Churchill was on his feet, shouting his objections. "Your honor, I object to all this questioning by the district attorney into the social life of this defendant, on the grounds that any testimony along these lines is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

"Your honor," Banning retorted heatedly, "It is my purpose with these questions and their answers to paint a character portrait of this defendant, and I can quickly demonstrate, if your honor will have the jury withdrawn, that all such testimony is extremely relevant to this case."

"Objection overruled," Judge Grimshaw rapped out. "The witness is instructed to answer the question."

From the press tables a sigh of relief went up. Western Union boys, scenting a big moment, hovered over the chairs of frantically busy reporters.

"I did escort Mrs. Wiley, then Miss Cherry Lane, to a dance at the Marlboro Country Club on Saturday, October 1," Bob answered slowly but distinctly.

But to the acute disappointment of press and audience, Banning dismissed Bob without another question. Cherry leaned back to grasp his hand as Bob took his seat immediately behind Faith. "Don't feel badly," she whispered, a brilliant smile on her lovely little face for the benefit of the watchful reporters. "You did splendidly and I wouldn't have you lie for me for the world."

"Oh, Bob," Faith quivered, as her cold fingers closed over his outstretched hand, "Banning's going to take up everything that Cherry ever did. He'll have Mrs. Albright testify to what happened at the Country Club."

She and other whisperers were silenced by the rapping of the judge's gavel, which preceded the calling of the next witness:

"Dr. Enos Paxton! Dr. Paxton!"

When the thin, middle-aged, soft-spoken doctor had taken his place on the witness stand and had been sworn, Banning, after a few preliminary questions allowed him to describe the wound which had caused the death of Ralph Winston Cluny.

"Then, in your opinion doctor, death resulted from one blow upon the back of the skull, made by a blunt instrument?" Banning summed up the medical examiner's testimony.

"That is correct," Dr. Paxton nodded.

"Would you say that such a blow could have been administered by this vase?" and Banning passed the broken Chinese vase to the doctor's outstretched hands.

"I would."

Further examination of the witness brought out the fact that human blood had been found on the broken lip of the vase, thus dispelling any possible doubt that the vase had been the instrument of death.

"Are you able to fix, approximately, within a few minutes, I mean, the time of death?" Banning asked, and every ear in the courtroom was strained for the answer. Upon his answer Cherry's very life might depend.

"By certain tests, which I will describe if you so direct, I fixed the time of death at approximately one half hour before my arrival, that is, at approximately eight-forty or eight-forty-five, though it is possible that death took place as early as eight thirty-five."

By not a flicker of an eyelash did Cherry betray fear or surprise at this fixing of the time of death so that it coincided with her confessed visit to Ralph Cluny's bedroom. By her own admission, she had asked Chris Wiley the time when she had stepped into his coupe, parked in the driveway close to the house, and had learned the hour to be nineteen minutes of nine.

"Your witness, Mr. Churchill," Banning smiled triumphantly, as if his case was clinched.

TOMORROW: Churchill does his best to shake the testimony of the medical expert and scores with the jury.

GOOD PIONEERS STILL LIVE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

An Oklahoma oil man is willing to spend $350,000 for a monument to the woman who helped to win the west.

Twelve sculptors have interpreted the pioneer woman in twelve bronze models. Popular vote has given the palm to Bryan Baker. No doubt the colossal figure which will eventually stand on a knoll somewhere on the Western Plains will be patterned after the popular model of Mr. Baker.

Bryan's Pioneer Woman is very young. Beside her and a little behind walks a little boy whose hand she is holding. Under her arm she carries a Bible. Hooked over the same arm is a bundle of clothes. She is very beautiful—her head is up and she looks fearlessly ahead. Her stride is long and firm. The whole attitude of the figure spells "ideal and future."

MacNeil's Pioneer Woman depicts rugged strength. She carries a baby on one arm and an axe in the other. She is barefoot. She, too, walks with fearless stride and steady gaze ahead. In her there is perhaps more strength but less ideal.

These were the women who braved torture and annihilation by the Indians, cruel hardships of endless journeys, starvation, cold, and the bitter

MORE BOWS

There is little chic this season that does not end in a bow. Sashes tie collars end in a bow, shoulders are adorned with bows, and bows fasten coats, suit jackets and frocks. One work of bringing up a family without the commonest necessities of life. Have women deteriorated? Emphatically no. Don't point to beauty parlors and bridge tables and say, "There she is now." Woman is a victim of civilization that has put rents up so high she dare not have a family. A house even is out of the question most of the time in the city. Cooped up in a steam-heated flat with life handle do her on a dumbwaiter, what is she going to do with her time? She can't sit and go crazy. So she does one of two things. She goes to movies and plays bridge or she goes out and works. In either case, she's condemned as being selfish.

Given a home and a chance, few women actually fall down on the job. They are good pioneers yet.

Great comfort in this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—no laundry

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND Registered Nurse

ON many important counts, women are deserting the old-time "sanitary pad."

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. 5 times as absorbent! And odorless—ends all fear of offending.

✓ As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Ask without hesitancy.

Eight in 10 better class women employ it. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk. Be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

THOMAS CARLYLE—1795-1881

It was Emerson who called Thomas Carlyle, "a trip hammer with an æolian attachment." Others have called him intolerant, harsh, with no appreciation of art or music. But that this man who wrote the greatest history of the French Revolution which has never been written should have written the love letters which he wrote Jane Welsh during their courtship, would seem to indicate a sentiment and romanticism hard to reconcile with one so avowedly austere. He courted her ardently and he finally won her away from the brilliant young divine, Edward Irving, who was one of his closest friends; and while friends of the couple said their married life was not happy there is but one record remains which bears out this statement. It was written by Carlyle's wife.

"I married for ambition. Carlyle has exceeded all my wildest hopes ever imagined of him, and I am miserable."

Thomas Carlyle to Jane Welsh

And thou, my poor Goody, depending on cheerful looks of mine for thy cheerfulness! For God's sake, do not, or so little as possible! How I love thee, what I think of thee, it is not probable that thou or any mortal will know. . . . God bless thee, my poor little darling! I think we shall be happier some time, and oh, how happy if God will.

(This was written when Carlyle was very poor, long before his achievement)

ments placed him among the world's great writers.)

Jane Welsh to Thomas Carlyle

(That Jane Welsh could not bring herself to become the wife of Carlyle for some time after the courtship started is indicated by the following letter.)

My friend, I love you—I repeat it, though I find the expression a rash one. All the best feelings of my nature are concerned in loving you. But were you my brother, I should love you the same. No! Your friend I will be, your truest, most devoted friend while I breathe the breath of life. But your wife, never! Never! Not though you were as rich as Croesus, as honored and renowned as you yet shall be!

Later she wrote him:

My affection for you increases. Not many months ago I would have said it was impossible that I should ever be your wife. At present, I consider that the most probable destiny for me. In a year or two I shall perhaps consider it the only one.

To this Carlyle replied:

If you judge it fit, I will take you to my heart as my wedded wife this very week. If you judge it fit, I will this very week forever you forever.

As the day for the wedding ceremony approached Jane Welsh wrote the following short letter. But she still calls him "friend."

Oh, my dearest friend, be always so good to me, and I shall make the best and happiest wife! When I read in your looks and words that you love me, then I care not one straw for the whole universe besides. But when you sit from me to smoke tobacco, or to speak of me as a mere circumstance of your lot, then, indeed, my heart is troubled about many things. ("It would appear from some of the letters that both Jane Welsh and Carlyle considered the marriage as a terrible calamity.")

Carlyle wrote her at one time, the following:

After all, I believe we take this impending ceremony too much to heart. Bless me! Have not many people been married before now?"

grow bumper crops!

Your farm won't grow big healthy crops unless you plant clean, healthy, vigorous seeds. Considering your time and labor and your investment in land and farm machinery you can't afford to buy any but dependable seeds. Rainbo field and grass seeds and seed corn are satisfactory because of their high uniform quality. We recommend them.

Oh, What a Soaking!

See this Sensational door soaking test!

WE are going to repeat the famous Laminex soaking test, proving that the scientific construction of Laminex doors makes them immune to moisture—the arch-enemy of ordinary doors.

LAMINEX DOORS will not shrink, swell or warp

Everyone interested in better building materials will want to see this conclusive demonstration of the warp-proof quality of Laminex doors. This famous test has been made in scores of places all over the country. Recently at the Canadian Construction Exposition at Toronto, a Laminex door was kept under water 16 days and nights continuously. It showed no trace of warping or coming apart.

Another example: Last September, during "Home Beautiful Show" at Los Angeles, a one-panel Laminex door was soaked continuously for 233 hours. No trace of winding or damage of any kind.

This is Laminex soaking test month. In cities all over the United States and Canada, Laminex doors are being subjected to this severe demonstration. We are featuring it in The Better Homes Show. Come! You are invited as a witness.

BINGHAMPTON GRAVEL PIT SALE ANNOUNCED

Sale of the Binghampton gravel pit, located about 10 miles north of Appleton, to Arnold E. Wendel, George J. Griesmayer, and J. F. Iken, all of Chicago, was announced this week by G. W. Ilsteau and Anton Mankusky, both of Kaukauna.

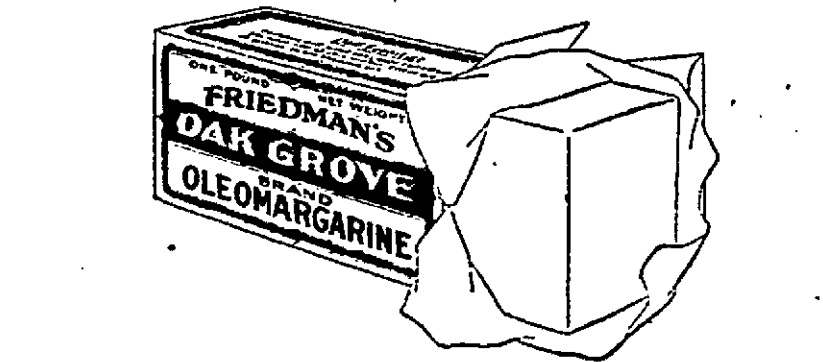

The new owners will move to Appleton immediately to take over operation of the pit. It is said, Wash sand and gravel will be produced.

The property consists of 40 acres of land and considerable machinery. It was bought by the Kaukauna men at a receivership sale June 21, 1926. Its appraised value at that time was $46,000, according to Mr. Ilsteau.

OAK GROVE the most appetizing margarine you can use

APPEZITIZING at breakfast . . . crisp toast or waffles spread with Oak Grove. Appetizing at lunch . . . hot, golden brown muffins and Oak Grove Margarine. Appetizing at dinner . . . a jump of Oak Grove Margarine. The mashed potatoes, melted and poured over the vegetables just before serving, added to the pan gravy when the steak comes on the table!

The whole family will like Oak Grove Margarine. It is sweet and of delicate flavor. It spreads smoothly without crumbling on bread. Used as a shortening it gives the tenderest, most delicate texture to cakes, pies and pastries. Oak Grove is made under United States government inspection. It is delivered to your grocer daily, fresh and pure. So sure are we that you will like it, that your grocer will refund your money if you feel Oak Grove isn't the very best margarine you can buy.

DON'T PARK CARS NEAR POSTOFFICE

Police Warn Public That Violators Will Be Arrested and Fined

The public this week was warned by the police department not to park vehicles either in front or at the side of the postoffice, or in public alleys. City ordinances make this practice unlawful, and violators are subject to fines.

The "no parking" signs around the postoffice were knocked down during the winter, but the street department Thursday was ordered to erect new ones so that motorists will be sufficiently warned.

A number of cars, left near the postoffice Wednesday, were tagged by the police, but the owners were allowed to go after they had warned the violators, in view of the fact that there were no signs up.

Motorists may drive up to the postoffice on E. Washington-st and leave their cars at the curb only long enough to enable them to get their mail.

The ordinance prohibiting parking in public alleys was adopted last December by the common council. Cars may be left in alleys only when discharging passengers or freight.

These ordinances will be strictly enforced, according to the police department.

HAREFOOT TICKETS FOR NIGHT SHOW SOLD

The play will be presented at Fischer's Appleton theatre on April 13.

Appleton Girls Taught How To Manage The Home

How to manage the home, plan meals, arrange the budget, systematize the daily work, and keep the machinery of the home in smooth operation was the lesson taught girls of the Appleton Vocational school in a nine weeks' course in Home Management, completed this week. The course, which was conducted by Mrs. M. S. Peerenboom, was completed by approximately 140 girls.

"Much interest was shown by the girls in the work and many new ideas were expressed in our daily discussions, which probably helped to lighten the work of many Appleton mothers," Mrs. Peerenboom said.

The general aims of the course were to teach girls to organize and plan homemaking activities in order that more comfort, satisfaction, economy and efficiency would result. An effort was made to teach the girls to be able to distinguish between good and bad home management and to help them to realize the value of the housewife's time.

One of the primary aims of this course was to teach girls that housework is not always drudgery but becomes such when there is no well defined plan of procedure.

"The comprehension of the value of training in home management will bring the girls to realize that they can increase family understanding and draw the members closer together by proper home management," Mrs. Peerenboom said.

That great interest was taken in the work, was evidenced by the numerous voluntary suggestions and ideas forwarded by the girls in the daily class. One instance was cited where a girl who works all day relieved her mother of all the darning in the home in order that she might derive a well

A More Distinctive Style in Motor Cars—Achieved by Nash

For those who hope to find their cars at the very peak of style and luxury, Nash has created this charming Special Sedan on the Special Six Chassis.

Its graceful profile suggests the custom-car design of Parisian boulevards. Here is the low-slung French-profile effect so desirable today.

Every interior detail is luxurious. The upholstery is tailored in exquisite Mohair Velvet. Window mouldings, door panels and instrument board are in walnut finish. And there is a walnut steering wheel.

And the way this car performs is every bit as enjoyable as its sparkling style.

It has the Nash 7-bearing motor—as do all Nash models—for superlative smoothness at every speed.

It has the Nash tubular-trussed frame, for extra strength and steadiness, to guard the body from destructive strains.

And it has power! Nash models, all of them, have extra power for exhilarating acceleration, on the hills, and in the traffic.

Compare this car to others sold at the same price—$1485 f.o.b. factory—and you cannot fail to decide you would rather have the Nash.

Waupaca pinmen, taking the drives Thursday evening in the first annual tournament of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, forced their way into the highlight of the event.

Some strong rolling, tough none of the leaders fell. In the five-man event the Waupaca Legion team rolled into fourth place with a score of 2792, just two pins below the mark of the Legion No. 1 team of Appleton, now holding third place. The Sullivan Post team of Green Bay was pushed to fourth by the Waupaca pinmen.

In the doubles P. Schneekloth and S. Salter hit the maples for a 1150 count and second place, breaking up the Green Bay monopoly on first, second and third. Two Bay teams were shoved from second and first to third and fourth and Balliet and Retza of Appleton moved from fourth to fifth. This showed J. Schillsky and L. Smith, local pinmen, to out of the leader's class.

No changes were made in the singles or booster event, but another Green Bay monopoly was broken in the all-events when Salter of Waupaca scored a 1821, six pins behind Thomas of Green Bay, the leader.

Leading Moundsmen Of Majors Seldom Repeat

BY BILLY EVANS
Winning a major league batting championship is a difficult feat. That is an admitted fact. However, statistics prove that finishing at the top of the pitching list is more so.

On the face of the two propositions it would seem that winning the pitching honors is the softer spot of the two. Yet such is far from the truth.

Champion batsmen repeat far more often than league leading twirlers.

Ty Cobb, greatest batter of all time, has led the American League twelve times, nine of them in succession.

Harry Heilmann has three copped the title, George Sisler is a two-time winner, while Larry Jaylo has four championships to his credit.

In the National League, Rogers Hornsby for six consecutive years finished in front. During his long and brilliant career, Hans Wagner captured eight batting championships, four in succession. Of the latter stars, 23 Kouss has twice captured the small crown.

It is a decidedly different matter when you look over the pitching statistics. There is no hogging of the spotlight for from two to 12 years.

Let us turn for a minute to the pitching averages of the major leagues and learn the story.

Since the organization of the American League in 1900, a matter of 27 years, we discover that only four pitchers have been able to head the list of pitchers for more than one season.

As one would expect, the great Walter Johnson is listed among the select four. He topped the list in 1915 when he won 34 games and lost only seven. Just 11 years later he repeated and helped Washington to its first pennant and world championship.

Chief Bender, why Indian, is the only American League pitcher to lead the pitchers for two years in succession, turning the trick in 1910-11.

The other right hander to perform so capably was Carl May, now with the Cincinnati Reds. As a member of the New York Yankees, he helped that team to its first pennant in 1921. Four years prior, with the Boston Red Sox, he was the best in the American League.

The other two-time winner among the American League pitchers was none other than the late Rube Waddell, noted almost as much for his eccentricities as his pitching, and there never was a better southpaw.

Waddell won his spurs in 1904-05. Perhaps an even better example of what a difficult task it is to be the winning pitcher in more than one year, is shown by the National League records covering the last 12 years.

During that period there hasn't been a single pitcher able to repeat.

Proving it's no thing to lead the batters and quite another to top the pitchers.

SLUGGING GOTHAM CREWS RETURN TO HOME LOT SATURDAY

Mackmen Take City Series from Phillies; Tiger Sluggers Show form

Gotham welcomes home three days after a hectic training campaign which has strengthened prospects of powerful pennant drives by the Yankees and Giants.

The Yanks pulled stakes in Nashville, Tenn., after holding the Cardinals even in spring renewal of their world series struggle.

The worlds champions carried off the eighth game of their tour, 10 to 8. The Giants at the same time stove in the Senator defense again with a once feared clutch attack, 19 to 9.

The series honors went to the Giants, seven games to two.

The Brooklyn Robins recovered the winning habit in Atlanta at the expense of the Crackers, 11 to 10.

The Philadelphia Athletics already have won a baseball championship, although the major-league opening is still in the offing. They stopped the Phillies, 2 to 1, Thursday, clinching the municipal title, three games to one.

The Cincinnati Nationals close their long training tour Friday.

The Cleveland Indians have packed their newly acquired straw hats to beat north for the beginning of the season.

Indians are that Ray Kremer will pitch the opening game for the Pittsburgh Pirates at Cincinnati, April 12, Dallas, Tex., trimmed the Buccaneers Thursday, 3 to 1.

The problem of arranging an effective batting lineup for the Detroit Tigers has been solved as the result of a successful experiment.

Convinced that his crew of heavy stick men had been improperly placed and that the advantage of their heavy hitting was not being fully realized, Manager Moriarty ordered a shift.

Manush, a consistent hitter was moved to second place. Pottergill, a once buster to third; Harry Heilmann, a dependable speedy man and slugger was given the cleanup berth and Blue, McManus and Warner followed in order.

This combination Thursday wrecked the defense of the Texas League team at Wichita Falls with rallies each time swung around to bat.

The St. Louis Cards are due home Saturday for the city series with the Browns.

DISTRICT NETBALL TEAMS START PLAY

K-C, Local Y, Lawrence Profs, Favorites; Bay Teams Darkhorses

With two darkhorse teams from Green Bay, competing in the district meet for the first time, included in the entry list of eight teams the annual volleyball tournament of the North-eastern athletic district of the Y. M. C. A. will open Saturday afternoon at the local Lawrence college gymnasium.

The meet closes Saturday evening with 14 matches played on a double elimination schedule which gives a losing team a second chance to meet a winner for first place.

With the Bay teams in, five of the eight teams might be considered favorites. Besides the Bay teams are the Kimberly-Clark mill team, the biggest favorite, winner of the meet last year; the strong Appleton Tri-angle seconds, composed of the second best eight players of the association, always a contender and the Lawrence college professors, another consistent contender.

The Blue profs have a greatly strengthened lineup this year including Athletic Director George Christoph and Dr. R. V. Landis, college physician, a regular of the Appleton Y first team which tied for state honors last spring.

The Neenah Methodists, Little Chute Legion and Manawa, apparently weak slaters, can be depended on to give the other teams hard battles especially the Manawa and Neenah teams, entries in past district meet. The winner will represent the district at Madison at the state meet on Saturday, April 16, with the local Y first team, beside receiving the first-place awards.

BADGER GOLF, TENNIS TEAMS OPEN PRACTICE

Madison (AP)—Prospective "Bobby Jones" and Bill Tilden's on the U. of W. campus have been ordered to stop shining gridirons and restringing tennis racquets. Spring has come.

At least as far as Coach Bill Winter of the U. of W. golf team and Coach Andy Leth of the racquetists, the time has come for outdoor practice in view of their early season matches the first week in May.

The golfers will meet Marquette, Iowa, Notre Dame, Northwestern and Michigan, before participating in the conference meet at Chicago.

The tennis team starts off with Minnesota, May 7, and then in order takes on Illinois, Northwestern, Michigan, Iowa, the conference meet at Chicago, Chicago and Ohio State.

ANOTHER LISTLESS DAY IN A. B. C. MAPLE MEET

Peoria, Ill.—(AP)—Another listless day of shooting marked the American Bowling Congress tournament Thursday, not a single new leader appearing among the high ten or, even among, the high twenty-five.

The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of Madison, gave the best exhibition of the 24 teams on the only night squad by totalling 2,921 pins.

Other good marks were hung up by the Akron, Ohio, Oils who got 2,837 and Hoyer Recreations of Milwaukee who spilled 2,567. Crack teams from the far west and far east are billed Friday night.

Following are Thursday's high scores in the singles: W. Scharr, Madison, Wis., 658; F. McGee, Scranton, Pa., 658; E. Ottow, Madison, 649; W. Schwegler, Madison, 635; and Meyer and Carroll, Madison, 1,236 in the doubles.

The Brooklyn Robins recovered the winning habit in Atlanta at the expense of the Crackers, 11 to 10.

The Philadelphia Athletics already have won a baseball championship, although the major-league opening is still in the offing. They stopped the Phillies, 2 to 1, Thursday, clinching the municipal title, three games to one.

Peoria, Ill.—(AP)—Another listless day of shooting marked the American Bowling Congress tournament Thursday, not a single new leader appearing among the high ten or, even among, the high twenty-five.

The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of Madison, gave the best exhibition of the 24 teams on the only night squad by totalling 2,921 pins.

Other good marks were hung up by the Akron, Ohio, Oils who got 2,837 and Hoyer Recreations of Milwaukee who spilled 2,567. Crack teams from the far west and far east are billed Friday night.

Following are Thursday's high scores in the singles: W. Scharr, Madison, Wis., 658; F. McGee, Scranton, Pa., 658; E. Ottow, Madison, 649; W. Schwegler, Madison, 635; and Meyer and Carroll, Madison, 1,236 in the doubles.

The Brooklyn Robins recovered the winning habit in Atlanta at the expense of the Crackers, 11 to 10.

PARKING LIMIT ON AVENUE IS FROWNED ON BY POLICE HEAD

Restrictions Would Drive People Away from City, Chief Prim Believes

Parking restrictions on streets in the business district are not advocated by George T. Prim, chief of police. Although the enactment of a few regulations by the common council might help relieve congestion somewhat, Chief Prim does not think such action advisable.

This city is not yet large enough to make parking restrictions imperative, according to Chief Prim. He admits it might do some good, but at the same time he points out that damage greater than the benefits derived might result.

"Appleton depends upon farmers and residents of nearby villages and cities for much of its trade," he said. "Not only would these people be inconvenienced considerably if they were required to park several blocks from the stores where they do their trading, but it might arouse their animosity if they forgot about the new regulations and returned to their cars to find tags on them. It is more than likely that Appleton would lose a large part of this outside trade."

Businessmen, professional men and clerks can do more than anyone else toward relieving any congestion which now exists, according to the chief. It is these persons who drive to work, park their machines outside their places of employment, and leave them there until they return home again in the evening, he pointed out. If they would either walk to work or park their cars at the stock fair grounds it would do much to help the situation, he believes.

Parking restrictions now are in public alleys. An amendment to ordinance 237 was adopted last December by the common council prohibiting parking in alleys excepting when discharging passengers or freight, and then only for such time as is necessary for that particular purpose. This amendment was adopted to relieve crowded conditions in alleys, which made it practically impossible for the

BAGG WILL LECTURE AT ACADEMY MEETING

An illustrated lecture will be given by Prof. Rufus M. Bagg of the geology department at Lawrence college, at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters Friday. He will talk on The Life and Customs of the Tarahumara Indians in the Sierra Madre Mountains of North Mexico.

The pictures used in the lecture were photographed by the professor when he was searching for gold and silver mines in these mountains from 1904 to 1906. He was then employed as manager of the Monteros Ge' mine, Chihuahua, Mexico.

Two of these Indians ran the Marathon foot race at Austin, Tex., March 25.

The Wisconsin Archeological society and the Midwest Museums conference will join with the academy in presenting a program of popular interest. Business of professional men and women on the state will join with members of university and college faculties in the program.

Dr. Chauncey Juday, secretary of the academy, planned the program which includes discussions of historical, scientific and educational subjects. All lectures will be in a popular vein. The technical paper listed being "read by title," that is announced at the meeting and printed in the proceedings, but not read as part of the program. Many of the lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides.

The fire department to get near the rear of buildings in case of fire.

That citizens can help immensely was proven last Saturday night when the Rotary club held its anniversary celebration at the Masonic Temple, Chief Prim pointed out.

The police department had requested residents of Appleton to refrain from parking their cars near the building, leaving the space for outsiders. Although there were almost 400 persons at the celebration, all those attending from other cities had ample room to park their machines near the temple. Local people cooperated in reserving the space for visitors.

There is only one variation in parking on streets. Cars left on College-ave are parked obliquely to the curb. Elsewhere they are left parallel to it.

SCHOOL BOARD IS CORPORATION OF GREATEST IMPORT

So Says E. H. Miles to Members of Wisconsin Board of Education Association

Madison—(AP)—School board members of the country are members of the board of directors of the largest and most important corporation in the United States," E. H. Miles, Ft. Atkinson school member told members of the Wisconsin Board of Education Association here Thursday.

"Your duties are largely those of business principles," he said, pointing out some of the duties the school officials should assume.

"You should have a correct vision of the value of education and how best to arrive at your ideals," he said. "See that proper funds are provided for the carrying on of your schools and see that they are wisely expended. Be willing to recognize the new in education. Be a diplomat and help smooth out the many petty things which come up and have nerve to face squarely each big problem that arises."

"Lastly and of most importance, get a good superintendent; clothe him with the proper authority and stand back of him first last and all the time."

Mr. Miles said that he had written to about fifty board members, city superintendents and school inspectors asking for lists of the things they thought board members should not do. He gave a summary of the replies.

"Don't think you are a school inspector."

"Don't commit yourself—on any question of importance until the board as a whole has passed upon it."

"Don't play favorites."

"Don't shirk your duty in a trying position."

"Don't meddle."

"Don't forget to have Supt. attend all board meetings."

PLAY SQUARE, CATLIN TELLS YOUNG ATHLETES

Play fair and square in whatever game you enter, attorney Mark S. Catlin, football coach at Lawrence college, told members of East Green Bay high "12" club Wednesday noon in a talk at Green Bay. The club is composed of athletic letter winners at the school.

Coach Catlin related his experiences.

Don't talk too much.

Don't give orders. Let the superintendent do that.

Don't forget to tell your superintendent about some of the good things you see or hear about the school.

Don't stay on the board unless you can work with the other members so that your school system serves well the boys and girls of your community.

while playing at Chicago university and pointed out that all his athletic achievements were the result of hard work and determination, rather than talent and ability. He also showed the same theory is applicable in business.

Mr. Catlin will bring George Little, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin and 1926 football coach, to Appleton to talk to his 1927 grid candidates this spring. Glenn Talsiewicz, former Northwestern university mentor and at present football coach at Wisconsin, also will speak here this month. It is reported.

Gib Horst Rainbow Garden Orchestra will play at the Home Show from 3 to 4:30, Friday and Saturday afternoons.

HIGH SCHOOL COACH HAS FRACTURED SKULL

Chester "Chet" Wiley, coach at East Green Bay high-school, was taken to St. Vincent hospital in Green Bay early this week with a fractured skull, received when he was struck by an iron ball being used in practicing the shot put on the school ground, according to word received here. One of the students was "putting the shot," according to witnesses, and the ball went about five yards in the air before striking the coach. It is not thought his injury is serious, but he will be in the hospital for more than a week.

Coach Wiley has a fine record in football, having brought East high three conference championships in six years. His teams finished among the leaders the other two years. He is well known here not only to athletic leaders but to members of the Y's Men's club, of which he is a prominent member in Green Bay.

WHAT HAD GONE BEFORE GARRETT FOLSOM is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pichag, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichag. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. He tells him Folsom had been blackmailing him and he had lied at the inquest but was innocent.

Stone meets others of the circle, including NED BARRON and his wife, MADELINE. He notes the latter's nervousness and questions her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX

"I mean to question everybody concerned. Mrs. Barron," Stone told her. "I talk to you alone only because I think it less distasteful to you than to be asked questions before others." "You say everybody concerned. I am not concerned—in any definite way."

"No, but you stood next the man at the time of the—"

"Not next to him. My husband was between us."

"Oh, yes. And you both had been talking to him?"

"Not I. He addressed Mr. Barron, who, of course, had to reply."

"I see. And you, then, never spoke to Garrett Folsom?"

"Never."

"You never saw him until that morning?"

"I saw him the night before in the lounge of the hotel. But I did not meet him."

"Now just one more thing. You know Mrs. Valdon?"

"Slightly."

"You are not friends?"

"Merely acquaintances. She is very beautiful, but she is not the type of woman I make friends with. I like her companion, Mrs. Barnaby, better."

"You know nothing of Mrs. Valdon to her disadvantage? I'm sorry to be so plain spoken, but I know that we both have at heart only the cause of Croydon Sears, and any possible side-light I can get on this matter may help us."

"Then I will answer frankly. I know nothing of Mrs. Valdon, to her definite detriment, except that she tries to bribe the servants to let her go into the rooms that were occupied by Mr. Folsom."

"She did do that? Do you mean she continues to do so?"

"Yes. My nurse knows her chambermaid, and I insisted on her telling me."

"That is helpful and you have done right in letting me know. Rest assured such information will only be used in furthering the cause of justice, and it is through some such chance knowledge that we often reach the facts."

"The whole party arrived back at the hotel about the same time, and, though the day scene in the lounge and dancing rooms was—"

Stone declared his readiness to meet Miss Folsom and her nephew and have a conference on the business that had brought him down.

The Barrons were excused from attendance and Robin Sears and Angel Fair were sent away to dance.

Then Croydon Sears and the detective accepted an invitation, brought them by Tite Riggs, to hold the session in the rooms that had been Folsom's and were now occupied by Dan Pelton.

This suited Stone and they went there at once.

"I am glad you are here, Mr. Stone," Anastasia said, in her straightforward way. "I wish I might have engaged you. I have one detective already."

"He said, glancing at Riggs, 'and I find no fault with him. But he has not your experience, whatever talent he may possess. Now, I hope you two will work together, for there is much to be done. I know, as well as you do, that Mr. Sears is coming into notice, and if ever there was a ridiculous suspect, he is it!'"

"Why?" Stone looked at her gravely. "I came down here, Miss Folsom, to save my friend, Croydon Sears, from a possible false accusation, and if you so lightly toss aside the danger of such, I shall think I came unnecessarily."

"Maybe unnecessarily for that effort, but there is still the question of who killed my brother. That has to be answered, Mr. Stone, and if you will take it upon yourself to solve the mystery, I will gladly pay any bill you may present."

"To my mind, Miss Folsom," Stone said, "the best and surest way to save Mr. Sears' name from unmerited accusation is to find the real murderer. In this I am quite sure you agree with me."

"Yes, indeed," was the emphatic response. "And, the way it looks to me, we are just starting out on a new investigation, or rather out on a new phase of the investigation, but better equipped for an intelligent inquiry."

Fleming Stone looked at the speaker with evident admiration.

"A wise judge could not put the matter more accurately," he said, "and I am glad to work with and for you and your colleagues."

"And for heaven's sake get somewhere," said Pelton, who, while saying little, had been listening to Stone and his aunt. "I'm no detective myself, but I think if I were I'd work harder and faster than most."

"He's hitting me," Tite Riggs said, with no display of annoyance. "But we know, don't we, Mr. Stone, that the great intellects of the true detectives work slowly? That the snap judgments and hasty conclusions of the amateurs are of little worth compared to the astounding results of our re-literation and meditation."

The classing of himself with the famous Stone was forgivable because of Riggs' whimsical tone and good-humored smile.

"We'll try to compass both," Stone said; "we'll hope to get the speedy results Mr. Pelton so much desires, together with the astounding results promised by Mr. Riggs. And now to business. Mr. Pelton, your part will be to show me any papers of your late uncle's that have any bearing on the matter of his death. Or better still, all the papers of his you have down here, for it's easy to be mistaken as to the bearing of a document."

"All right, Mr. Stone," was the reply, but the observant eye of the detective noted a disinclination to comply with the request.

"Perhaps that will be our first step," Stone went on, determined to push the matter, since Pelton was so obviously adverse to it.

Yet it was not a lengthy procedure. After the neat bundle of letters and papers were brought from the desk and looked over, Miss Folsom directed her nephew to produce the suitcase that he had brought from New York with additional data in it.

To this Pelton showed unmistakable unwillingness. He said he had mislaid the key to the suitcase, but his aunt brought him up with a round turn.

"Nonsense!" she exclaimed. "You haven't done anything of the sort and if you have, it doesn't matter. We can break it open. You bring out that suitcase, Dan."

Pelton went to the closet to get it, and before he returned he could be heard opening the catch.

"Bring it just as it is, please," said Fleming Stone calmly, wondering if Dan Pelton was, after all, concerned in the affair.

"Don't you dare meddle with it," cried Miss Anastasia, jumping up and going to her nephew. "Whatever ails you, Dan? What monkey tricks are you up to now?"

"Nothing of the sort," he returned. "I had put some of my own letters in here, too—that's all."

As he talked he had set the small case on a table and, flinging it open, was looking amazedly at its contents. Apparently something surprised him, but in a moment he gave a sigh of relief, and said:

"There you are, Mr. Stone. I didn't put mine in there after all. I thought I did."

"Forgetful youth," Stone said, lightly. "Well, here goes for these, then." But no more evidential documents were found in this lot than in the other, and Stone's suspicions of Dan Pelton took a new lease of life. The young man acted nervous and anxious until the suitcase was opened, then he was calm and at ease. What had he expected that he didn't find?

Pelton had the whip hand in his possessions of all documents and letters.

The more Stone thought about it the more sure he was that something had been abstracted from the suitcase during Pelton's absence from the room, and that whatever it was had given Pelton satisfaction rather than otherwise. Therefore it was something that Pelton did not want him to see. Therefore it was something that incriminated Pelton or somebody Pelton desired to shield.

This was one of those swift flashes of intuition and sudden enlightenment that come at times, and Stone was quick to act upon it. He determined to find out if any one friendly with Pelton had accomplished this act, whatever it was, that had changed him from a spirit of apprehension and fear to a satisfied, contented mood.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: The Ten-Nine opposite King-Jack frequently can be used most effectively in making the finesse. Yesterday the following hand was given:

With South playing a No-Trump, the first trick should be: Four of Clubs, Eight of Clubs, Queen of Clubs, Ace of Clubs; and the question is how Declarer should plan to play the remainder of the hand. Some Declarers would at once attack with the Hearts, hoping to run four Heart tricks; but, as has already been pointed out in these articles, that would be very bad play. The lead of a seven-card (in the two hands) Ace-King-Queen suit should be postponed until the adversaries have established a suit with which they will save game if they obtain the lead. Until then, Declarer should attempt to make up his own suit, knowing that the seven-card Ace-King-Queen suit, if good for four tricks, will stay good; and if not good, may become so (as a result of adverse discards) if kept in the background. Trick 2 should be: South, Ten of Diamonds; West, the Queen (this play being made with the hope that East has the Nine); Dummy, the King; and East, the Ace. (There is no reason for East to hold up; Dummy has an entry, and playing the Ace may make a Diamond good for West.) Trick 3 East leads Seven of Clubs; South, the Six; West, the Nine; Dummy wins with the Jack. (Note the difference if Dummy had played the Jack on the first trick.) West does not win this trick because doing so would leave his Clubs unestablished (South is marked with the Ten); but by ducking, the Clubs are established and in shape to run if East can get the lead. The rest is easy. Trick 4, Closed Hand wins with the Nine of Diamonds, and then leads the Eight; Dummy overtakes, cashes the last Diamond, and then goes to the Hearts. It may be that a Heart discard will have been made, which would produce a Heart trick not originally obtainable.

CATLIN NEW COMMODORE OF APPLETON YACHT CLUB

George Catlin was elected commodore of the Appleton Yacht club, formerly the Appleton Motor Boat club, at the monthly meeting Thursday evening at the club house. By a unanimous vote the club members voted to change the name of the club. Following are the other officers elected:

Leo Schroeder, vice commodore; Earl Le Moine, rear commodore; Paul Bowen, fleet captain; H. Buss, secretary-treasurer; Al Wendt, assistant R. Forester, trustee for one year; N. Klein, trustee for two years; N. Storm, trustee for three years. Members of the membership committee are: Herbert Brock, Harry Quell, M. Le Moine and Leo Schroeder.

Members of the club voted to engage Charles Manville as property man for three months. Mr. Manville also will conduct a refreshment stand at the clubhouse during the summer. Seven new members were taken into the organization and plans for a membership drive were made.

Miss Violet Bates and Miss Greta Lichard of Gillette are visiting friends and relatives at Neenah and Menasha over the weekend.

Gib Horst Rainbow Garden Orchestra will play at the Home Show from 3 to 4:30, Friday and Saturday afternoons.

DEMONSTRATOR DISCUSSES FOODSHOW ADVERTISING

Advertising benefits exhibitors derive from pure food shows were discussed by Mrs. Maymie Wendland of Minneapolis, cooking school expert, at the meeting of the Appleton Advertiser club at Hotel Northern Thursday noon. Mrs. Wendland is in Appleton to demonstrate King Midas flour at the Post-Crescent Pure Food and Better Home show at Armory G this week.

She has been in charge of cooking schools at various state fairs and national exhibitions, including the Manufacturers and Merchants exposition in Chicago, where the cooking schools were operated on a competitive basis. Mrs. Wendland's talk was supplemented by Mr. Brocket, sales representative for the King Midas Co. in this territory.

(A Fun Shop Drama
In Three Acts
By William K. Howell)

ACT ONE
(Scene: Fraternity house. Two young men, Gardner and Wilkie, are talking.)
Wilkie: "I don't know how I'm going to get to the track meet. I haven't got a cent."
Gardner: "And I haven't got any to lend you. Why don't you work for the railroad?"
Wilkie: "But I haven't got a pass."
Gardner: "Toll him you lost it."
ACT TWO
(Scene: Day coach of a train. Conductor approaches Wilkie.)
Wilkie: "I've just discovered that I left my pass behind. I work in the division superintendent's office."
Conductor: "Well, that's all right. The division superintendent is on the train. Come on along with me, and we'll have him identify you."
ACT THREE
(Scene: Parlor car. Mr. Butler is seated. Conductor and Wilkie approach him.)
Conductor: "My Superintendent, this man says he works in your office and forgot his pass. All right?"
Butler: "Certainly. Let him ride."

WHY THEY FIRED HIM
Guest in Hash Joint: "When your waiter told me some appetizing tales about the reliability of your shirred eggs, I ordered some, and that's nearly a half hour ago. What has become of that waiter?"
Hashery Owner: "We fired him, sir for he don't allow waiters in this restaurant with their shirred tails visible!"

Our Barber Cuts the "Wind Blown" Bob

This new style in bobs, which is so pretty for girls who have just the least bit of natural curl in their hair, is creating a great deal of interest everywhere. The hair is cut in a new way and when the ends curl a little naturally, the effect is delightful and "windblown." The girl who likes styles that are different should consult our barber about it. He will tell you whether your hair is suited to this type of bob.

Have You Reserved Time for a Marcel for Easter?

Every year the rush for the Easter marcel becomes more intense. Of course one must be marcelled afresh unless one has just had a permanent wave. It would be perfectly useless to buy a smart new Easter hat to top a week-before-last marcel. But remember how many women there are who are planning to have one right before Easter. Be on the safe side and make your appointment early.
